About Myself

I am a self-taught passionate Web Application Developer specialising in MERN Stack Web Development. As a full-stack web developer, I can convert a Figma design to a perfectly responsive website template and give them life using React JS. I can develop scalable REST APIs using Node.js, Express JS & MongoDB and connect them with front-end single-page applications. I'm very comfortable with the Next.js framework and have sound knowledge of both client and server-side rendering.
